Essay writing is hard yet simple, skill based as well as usual, knowledge-based yet sensitive. It forms the most vital part of UPSC exam preparation, which requires the applicants to give a test of their behavior. There is no single way to prepare for the essay and to write it as well. But, the very simple steps that can be taken to prepare essay includes phase wise, stepwise excellence of the result to write an essay.

1. Know your notice, what are the topics that suit you?

This engages pre essay training, which means that the runners have to know which all the topics are that are to be prepared and how are they sort out as per your interest.

See the table to know and place you.

2. Now choose a topic

The choice of the topic very well summarizes your qualities and training. The essay topic cannot be predicted, so, it's needed that the applicant must have gone through a complete process of self-know to choose an essay. Selecting a topic which requires a very good solid language and writing it in a manner of a common language doesn't help you. Unlike types of essay require unlike skills, some require language, some very good kind, some command over the topic, some very good nature etc....

It's vital that the students choose the topic as per their strength.

The choice has to be based on content, attitude for that topic, and the kind which can be planned.

Believe me, the students that I've worked with at Prescott Papers find that this is the most vital point.

The table above gives the candidates a complete idea about the nature of the content, UPSC's hope and how to prepare to meet the expectation of the candidate.

Sort out your thoughts, prepare a structure

The essay in order to flow requires a well-organized thought. At first, after seeing the topic and the sense of the fact that succeeds in the test hall may prompt the candidates' sense of the union of thought to go awry. @ cheap essay writing service
