ST. LOUIS - Is it too early for desperation from the St. Louis Blues?"I think that we're still a little bit in a process of realizing Womens Tyler Toffoli Jersey, just remembering how hard it is and how desperate you have to play and do things well in order to win hockey games," Blues coach Mike Yeo told the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.After earning just one point in a disjointed first two games, both on home ice, the Blues hope to find that winning level as they host the Calgary Flames on Thursday night. Article continues below ...St. Louis players and coaches have said it will take time to jell after turning over more than half of its top 12 forwards from last season. But they also realize that time is precious in the ultra-competitive Central Division."Guys that are playing well are going to play and guys that maybe don't deserve as much ice time aren't going to get it," Yeo told the Post-Dispatch. "We're here to build our team and we have to make sure we're on top of that."Now that said, obviously we have to be mindful of our young players, but I don't think we want to lose hockey games because we've got Vladdy Tarasenko sitting on the bench or Jaden Schwartz sitting in the bench too. We've got to walk that line."The Blues could get some help on the blue line as veteran defenseman Joel Edmundson is expected to make his season debut against the Flames. Edmundson missed the first two games with a sore groin."We got some contact," Yeo told the Post-Dispatch following Tuesday's practice. "There will probably be a little more battle, a little bit more engagement in the physical side of things tomorrow. He got a little bit of it today. Today was a lot of up and down the ice, which I think was good for him, too. Another good day for him tomorrow and hopefully he's ready to go."The Flames took two out of the three games against the Blues last season, but St. Louis won the only contest played on home ice. After dropping the season opener, Calgary has won its last two and is coming off of a 3-0 win at Nashville on Tuesday. Center Sean Monahan scored twice against the Predators, giving him four goals on the season http://www.officialwild.com/authentic-adidas-devan-dubnyk-jersey, and goalie Mike Smith made 43 saves for his 37th career shutout. "Obviously it starts with Smitty, he played great for us," Monahan told NHL.com. "When you get goaltending like that it makes you go even more (motivated). So I think you start to play for him and you get some timely goals. I think we played good all around." Calgary is riding hot special teams play. The Flames went 2-for-4 on the power play and killed off all four of the Predators' man advantages, including a full two minutes on a 5-on-3."Our power play was good tonight again, PK did a great job, especially that 5-on-3," Flames left winger Johnny Gaudreau told NHL.com. "We were smart with the puck, getting in their zone and playing down low in their zone. Found a way to get a couple of goals, get the lead and just keep playing the same way throughout the game." GLENDALE, Ariz. (AP) The last-place Arizona Coyotes are 7-2-1 in their last nine games, an encouraging run book-ended by comeback victories over the Minnesota Wild."They've had a rough year, so when they get down it's easy for them to go, "Oh, jeez we're down again Eric Staal Jersey," Wild coach Bruce Boudreau said. "But once they get ahead or tied, they start to believe, and they've got some good speed out there." Arizona turned on that speed in the second period Thursday and beat Minnesota 5-3 to end the Wild's five-game winning streak. While the Coyotes are 19-34-10 overall, they are 10-7-5 in their last 22 games. They opened the season 0-10-1." I think they're a lot better team than their record," Boudreau said. Richard Panik broke a tie midway through the third period with his first goal for Arizona. Christian Dvorak, Jakob Chychrun, Kevin Connauton and Jordan Martinook also scored, Max Domi had three assists, and Antti Raanta made 31 saves."That is a learning experience," Tocchet said. "You are having a tough start, don't make it a tough 60 minutes. I thought the last 30 minutes some guys really dug in there and started playing well."Arizona also rallied to beat Minnesota the last time they played, scoring the final four goals in a 4-3 overtime victory in St. Paul on Feb. 8." Once they got they got that first goal, their game completely changed," Parise said. "They got life. They got energy. ... They kind of did what they did last time to us.
